THE ROAD NOT TAKEN

Robert Frost

roads diverged in a yellow wood, sorry I could not travel both
I be one traveler, long I stood
I looked down one as far as I could No, not I, where shall I go?
where it bent in the undergrowth;

To the left, where's nothing
then took the other, as just as fair,
right, or to the right, where's and having perhaps the better claim nothing left, .?
because it was grassy and wanted wear, though as for that the passing there via (Quotes and Notes)
had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I,
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.
